Tech to Try

Free tech to try out

Powtoon is an animated presentation tool, essentially a cooler version of Powerpoint. Simple to use, you and students can create engaging, interesting, and fun animated presentations. Include movement, sound, and voiceovers as you like. Completely free for educators, it allows you to set up 3 classroom accounts per teacher account.

What can I do for you?

Co-teaching

- Common Core places an emphasis on inquiry and deep research projects. Let's collaborate! You teach the content, & I'll teach the research process.
- Tip: Send me the assignment info before-hand and I can plan for better co-teaching

Technology Integration

- Wanting to integrate tech into your lessons? Let me suggest & teach different apps or websites to spice up your projects & presentations.
- Tip: Check out our Pinterest page for a wide range of resources!

Literature appreciation

- It can be tough to get teens excited about reading. I love to do book-talking and "book speed dating" events to get students exposed to books they may not have otherwise considered.

Plus anything else you need

- I'm here to help you and our students. Call, email, stop me in the hall, ask me to come to you, or stop in the library. Let me know your needs and we'll go from there.
- Tip: If we don't have a resource you want, you can submit a resource request

A little bit about me...

Greetings from your new Library Media Specialist, Kelsey Bogan! I'm so excited to join GVHS this year. This year I aim to create a Library Media Center environment that will be welcoming and meet the instructional, curricular, and personal needs of students and staff.

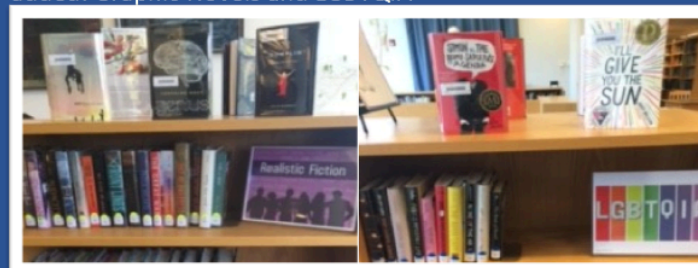

Please feel free to contact me with any questions or needs you have.

What's New in the Library?

New Books & Genres

New books have arrived! Two new sections have also been added: Graphic Novels and LGBTQIA

New Tech

Database – JSTOR

- We now have JSTOR, an online database of full-text, scholarly journals in a wide variety of disciplines

Pinterest

- GVHS Library now has a Pinterest account, where teachers and students can find a wide variety of resources.
